The movies that shaped our lives

Colin Shindler has been lecturing on American and British social and cultural history for over 30 years at Cambridge University, on cruise ships and now for the Arts Society of Great Britain at branches all over the country. He won a BAFTA award for his production of A Little Princess starring Maureen Lipman, a Cable Emmy for the original The Worst Witch starring Diana Rigg and Tim Curry and a US Prime Time Emmy nomination for Young Charlie Chaplin starring Twiggy and Ian McShane as well as writing and producing the much loved television series about a rogue art dealer Lovejoy. He has written screenplays (Buster with Phil Collins and Julie Walters), radio plays and more than a dozen books on film and sport, including his best-selling childhood memoir Manchester United Ruined My Life. He currently hosts a weekly podcast on football in the 1960s and 1970s called, unsurprisingly, Football Ruined My Life.

Come and join Colin for a walk through the movies that have provided a backdrop to our lives, in the shape of six morning and afternoon sessions, all lavishly illustrated with clips from the appropriate movies.
